01 Introduction

This lexicon is a comprehensive resource that categorizes and defines key terms and concepts prevalent in the fields of Indian politics, governance and feminism. It encompasses sections on democracy and significant social terms, national political terminologies and positions, state-level governance jargon and roles, local administrative terms and roles, as well as sections dedicated to feminism and gender-related concepts. This lexicon serves as a guide for a foundational understanding of the intricate language and terminologies that shape political and social discourse.

Note: This is not an exhaustive list and is a working document, and we will continue to update it every couple of years.

7. Coalition: A group of political parties coming together to form a government.
8. Communalism: The promotion of the interests of a particular religious or ethnic community, often at the expense of other communities.
9. Confederation: A loose association of independent states or organizations that agree to cooperate on specific issues or objectives.
10. Constituency (Parliamentary): For the purpose of constituting the Lok Sabha, the whole country has been divided into 543 Parliamentary Constituencies, each one of which elects one member. The members of the Lok Sabha are elected directly by the eligible voters. A specific geographic area is represented by an elected official, such as an MP. For example, Karnataka has 28 Lok Sabha (parliamentary) seats or constituencies, each of which is administered by a Member of Parliament. Tejasvi Surya, a member of the Bharatiya Janata Party, represents the Bengaluru South constituency as an MP.

11. Constituency (Legislative): A legislative constituency is a distinct geographic area within a state or union territory represented by an elected member in the state's legislative assembly (MLA). These constituencies are defined based on population and geographical boundaries, ensuring local representation in the state's legislative processes. Each constituency elects one MLA through direct voting by eligible voters. For example, Delhi has 70 legislative assembly constituencies, each electing one MLA to represent its local area in the state's governance. Atishi, a member of the Aam Aadmi Party, represents the Kalkaji constituency in New Delhi as an MLA.
12. Constitution: A set of fundamental principles or established precedents guiding a country's governance.
13. Civic Engagement: Participation in activities that contribute to the well-being of a community or society, including voting, volunteering and community organizing.
14. Democracy: A government system where power is vested in the people, who either govern directly or elect representatives.
15. Democratic Socialism: A political ideology combining democratic principles with socialism, emphasizing social justice and economic equality.
16. Demographics: The statistical characteristics of a population, such as age, gender, race and income.
17. Dictatorship: A government controlled by a single leader, known as a dictator, who has complete power over the state. Dictatorships are often characterized by authoritarian rule and lack of democratic freedoms.
18. Dravidian: A significant linguistic and cultural group in Southern Asia, primarily speaking languages like Tamil, Telugu, Kannada and Malayalam.
